

CHURCH RULE AROUSES IDAHO Polygamy and Bossism by Priesthood.

Republicans Deny That There Is Any Such Thing.

Both Sides Are Making the Fight on This Issue a Warm One.

Special to The Tribune.

BLACKFOOT, Oct. 29.—The post-ponement of the Republican orators in Idaho during the present campaign has reached its latest point on the Mormon question. It was not an issue, polygamy and church dictation, has assumed gigantic proportions.

Senator Heyburn, in a speech at Pocatello, Wednesday night, attempted to belittle the issue and the Democracy for the part they have taken in this campaign. Heyburn contented himself with denying that there was any combination of church and state in Idaho, and that he was elected to the Senate two years since by reason of such a compact between the Republican leaders and the Mormon church.

His attempt to explain why Blaine Woolley was promoted from deputy internal revenue collector to the position of mayor at Boise was extremely lame, and at the same time extremely funny.

Forced by Mormon Bishop.

Heyburn says that the first he knew of Woolley was a better Federal position than he had come to him through the United States marshal, after Blaine Woolley's election to the Senate. Heyburn tried to persuade Woolley to resign, but he refused, and then Heyburn says, "I did everything he could for him. Just as the minor details that had been in the position prior to the Senatorial election that had escaped Heyburn until he was elected."

Heyburn defended Mormonism.

In the present campaign, Heyburn displayed great zeal and energy, particularly in his address of the Mormon church and its practices, but many of his consistent and steadfast friends never dreamed he would open to such an attack. Heyburn has been made upon him by Charles Heyburn and the Democrats throughout the State.

Leader Badly Muddled.

All in all, the Republican leader is badly muddled. They say, in every speech, he is devoted to the Mormon question, and that his challenge was directed to Senator Dubois. Mr. Heyburn, however, makes affidavit in every speech that he cited in answer to Boral's challenge.

Heyburn at Blackfoot.

Special to The Tribune.

BLACKFOOT, Oct. 29.—United States Senator Heyburn addressed the Republican Defends Republicans of Idaho for Position on Mormon Question.

Special to The Tribune.

BLACKFOOT, Oct. 29.—United States Senator Heyburn addressed the

There was a cry in the streets. People rushed from their doors and strained their eyes on the struggling balloonist fighting for life.

Even the poor, panting sufferer in the sick room was forgotten while the famous balloonist was struggling for life.

There can be nothing more pitiful than the struggle the consumptive makes against disease. The greatest enemy of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the struggle for life.

It cures obstinate coughs, weak lungs, and emaciation, and is especially treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

It is a severe cough, hectic fever, wasting and other symptoms of diseased lungs.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

Dr. J. C. Pierce, Medical Director, Littlefield Co., N. C.

people of Blackfoot this evening. His speech was in line with all the talk now being made by Republican orators. Heyburn is the recognized field marshal of the "allied forces" in Idaho, by reason of his compact with the Mormon church two years ago, when he was elected to the Senate.

He devoted much time to eulogizing Roosevelt, skimming over State issues and defended the party on the Mormon question.

Before the Smoot investigation started, Heyburn gave out an interview at Pocatello, in which he announced that Smoot would retain his seat. He showed his hand at that time and has continued to do so. He, of course, denied that polygamy and church dictation is an issue, but spent most of his time on that theme.

He abused the Democrats two years ago on the stump for the abuses in the insane asylum at this place, alleging that one patient had been so brutally treated as to cause death, etc., promised a change if Republicans were successful, but the management was never disturbed and the field marshal passed over that gracefully.

The Senator's reception here this morning was something of a frost.

Democratic Claims in Next Congress

Chairman Cowherd Says His Party
Will Have 225 Seats in House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Chairman Cowherd of the Democratic Congressional committee, tonight issued a statement claiming 225 seats in the Fifty-ninth Congress for the Democratic party. He bases this prediction on the claimed strength of the national ticket in the East and to "local disensions in the Republican ranks" in the Middle West. Mr. Cowherd says:

Cowherd's Claims.

"As the situation stands at present, the prospects are that the Democrats will carry 225 out of the 386 districts in the United States. In the estimate I have included the States of Idaho, Utah and Wyoming. These are all doubtful, as matters now stand. The Democratic chances are excellent in the two of the three. Our gains in the East will be due largely to the strength of the national ticket. In the Middle West they will be due more particularly to local disensions in the Republican ranks. The long hold on patronage has bred much trouble in Republican districts and the Democrats will profit correspondingly by reason of it." The details of the estimate follow:

Here Is His Estimate.

Alabama	1
Arkansas	1
California	3
Colorado	3
Connecticut	1
Delaware	1
Florida	1
Georgia	1
Idaho	1
Illinois	1
Indiana	1
Iowa	1
Kansas	1
Kentucky	1
Louisiana	1
Maryland	1
Massachusetts	1
Michigan	1
Minnesota	1
Mississippi	1
Missouri	1
Montana	1
Nebraska	1
Nevada	1
New Jersey	1
New York	1
North Carolina	1
Ohio	1
Pennsylvania	1
Rhode Island	1
South Carolina	1
Tennessee	1
Texas	1
Utah	1
Virginia	1
West Virginia	1
Wisconsin	1
Wyoming	1
Total	225

FAIRBANKS IN CINCINNATI.

Senator Addresses Large Audience in the Queen City.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 29.—Senator Fairbanks tonight addressed a large audience in Music hall, concluding a day of speech-making which included stops at English, Arango, Milton, North Vernon and Lawrenceburg, in Indiana, and at Louisville, Ky. The meeting was one of the largest on his tour. A speech was also made by Senator Foraker.

Senator Fairbanks described the financial troubles between 1892 and 1896, and continued: "In 1896 the people were so tired of the Democratic party that they had enough of Democratic distress. The convention which met at St. Louis rested on two great policies estimated essential to bring back prosperity to the American people. It resolved in favor of wiping the Democratic tariff law from the statute book, and also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

"A little later the Democratic convention met at Chicago and it proceeded to declare in favor of certain policies, the efficacy of which it had confidence. It resolved, first, in favor of free trade, second, in favor of free silver, and third, in favor of the gold standard. It also voted to uphold the gold standard. Upon these great policies it nominated a candidate for President who possessed the confidence of the people, and commanding genius and ability to carry these great policies into effect. The national administration—William McKinley of Ohio.

CANNOT FOOL THE SOCIALISTS

Prefer Republicanism to Democracy.

Warren Foster Criticises
Speech of Judge Powers at Mammoth.

Believes in Big Trust Owned and Operated by the Government for the People.

Judge Powers, Democratic candidate for Congress, in a speech at Mammoth a few days ago, and I presume he is making the same speech elsewhere in the State, made the statement in substance, that Socialism contains many good things which he approves of, but said that the quickest way to get Socialism is to vote the Democratic ticket. Now, the Judge must have laughed when he let go that remark. Whether or not the Judge succeeded in making any one else believe that statement I do not know.

Certain it is that there was at least one person in the house that he did not succeed in making believe it, and that was Judge Powers himself. The Judge knows better, and knows better than Judge Powers knows, or at least I give him credit for knowing enough about Socialism to know that the underlying principles of the Democratic party are the very antithesis of Socialism, and the better Democrat the man is, the further he is away from Socialism and vice versa.

Differences Between Parties.

The ideas of the two parties present all the difference there is between extreme individualism on the one hand and extreme collectivism on the other. Jefferson's idea of a well governed country was the one that was governed least. Democracy has always believed in State's rights as against a strong centralized government. It was the teachings of Democracy that led up to secession, and the Rebellion of the '60s. Socialists do not believe in the so-called State's rights. Socialism is a party of collectivism, and all necessarily must believe in a strong centralized government.

The Democratic party is also very much opposed to what it styles sumptuary laws, and would regard, and in fact does regard nearly everything demanded by the Socialists as sumptuary. As I said above, Democracy is the champion of individualism, while Socialism believes in and demands collective ownership and control of all the means of production and distribution. Every tendency of Democracy is toward anarchy, and of course against Socialism.